NEW SOUTH WALES FIRE SAFETY REFORMS “WHAT THIS MEANS FOR YOU”

With the first step of the imminent NSW fire safety reforms announced, FPA Australia will be holding a NSW Member Forum to inform members of the details of this announcement and to seek your feedback on the reforms.

THE FORUM WILL PROVIDE

- An overview of the reforms from representatives of the NSW Government & FPA Australia
- The Associations position to become a “competent fire safety practitioner”
- A panel of representatives will discuss the likely effects on the industry, the changes and challenges ahead and highlight the benefits of such reforms for the industry in NSW

OPEN FORUM

Following the above, an open discussion will be held for FPA Australia Members to ask questions and provide feedback on the reforms and the proposed criteria for competent fire safety practitioners.

In particular, final feedback on the draft accreditation guidelines released by the NSW Department of Finance, Services and Innovation is due in August. As such, it is important to raise any questions or concerns at this forum so that they can be considered for inclusion in FPA Australia’s submission on these draft guidelines.
